MEDIA RELEASE

New architectural guide of Ottawa-Gatineau landmarks in celebration of Canada’s 150th anniversary

Ottawa, June 20, 2017 – The University of Ottawa Press and Figure 1 Publishing released an architectural guide to the National Capital Region by Andrew Waldron, and photography by Peter Coffman in the Pellan Room, Library and Archives Canada.

The landmarks in the Ottawa-Gatineau area reflect its history, culture and regional and national aspirations. Exploring the Capital: An Architectural Guide to the Ottawa-Gatineau Region, available in French and in English, is an invitation to discover these and their significance.

Exploring the Capital is for architectural experts and amateurs, and for residents and visitors alike. Waldron has created eleven guided tours covering all corners of the Capital region, taking you behind the doors of nearly 400 diverse structures to learn who made them and how they did it. Visit Ottawa’s landmarks and neighbourhoods through stories, maps, and photographs, and learn how great design and engineering turn landscapes into cityscapes.

The University of Ottawa Press gratefully acknowledges the support it receives from the Government of Canada through the Canada Book Fund and Livres Canada Books, as well as support from the Canada Council for the Arts, the Ontario Arts Council, the Ontario Media Development Corporation (OMDC), the Canadian Federation for the Humanities and Social Sciences through the Awards to Scholarly Publications Program, and especially that of the University of Ottawa. Special thanks to Library and Archives Canada for their generous contribution to the launch, and to the City of Gatineau and Tourisme Outaouais for supporting the publication of this book.

The University of Ottawa Press is North America’s only fully bilingual university press and oldest French-language university press. UOP publishes compelling English and French monographs and collective works in the humanities and social sciences, and translations of literary works that contribute to the advancement and dissemination of knowledge.
